Reader's Advisory

The Seattle Art Museum Libraries have announced that they have completed phase one of a new digital collection, Seattle Art Museum Annual Exhibition of Residential Architecture, 1950–1980. Starting in 1950, the Seattle Art Museum featured tours and exhibitions of residential architecture. The general public was invited into gated communities and private enclaves, welcomed, and served tea and cookies. The tours continued until 1980. Developed and run by the Art Museum Guild, these tours document the changes and growth of both the museum and the Seattle metropolitan area. These tours opened the doors of prominent civic figures, from industrial magnates to university deans and presidents, and provided an intimate portrait of them through architecture, interior design, and art collections. This collection, comprised of digitized maps and brochures, is currently available through our Omeka.net site. Second and third phases, which will include photography and local press coverage documents, will be available via ARTstor's subscription-based Shared Shelf, as well as Omeka.net. Completion is expected by the end of the year.
