Articles & Segments

Yun Jiang is back home in China for the summer, so I am going to try something a little different. Many of you may also be away from physical issues of current architecture journals. For the next several months, topics will be explored here in a more in-depth way through links to open access articles, blog posts, etc. This month, AI will be highlighted. Next month, the challenges with sustainability will be addressed and for August, the topic will be biophilic design.
