Reader’s Advisory

The Alden Dow Library: A Report from the Director, Craig McDonald

Mid-century modern architect Alden B. Dow, F.A.I.A., designed over 600 projects throughout fourteen states, including 350 in his home state of Michigan. He was named Architect Laureate of Michigan in 1983, and remains the only architect to have received that distinction. The books and journals Mr. Dow collected, consulted and drew inspiration from have been cataloged and are now searchable on WorldCat.org, the world’s largest library catalog.

Housed in the Alden B. Dow Home & Studio, a National Historic Landmark located in Midland, Michigan, this working collection illustrates the diversity of Mr. Dow’s interests, from the expected to the unexpected. All facets of art and architecture are well-represented, in particular Japanese art and architecture. His wide-ranging interests in creativity, philosophy, photography, color, and natural materials are also reflected in his professional library.

Materials in the collection are available for in-house study and use by students, faculty and researchers. To schedule an appointment or for more information about discovering and accessing the collection, contact the Alden B. Dow Archives at archives@abdow.org or 989-839-2744.
