Reader’s Advisory

A new tool just unveiled is able to find full-text of 50–85 percent of scholarly articles (including humanities), depending upon the year of publication and topic. Unpaywall was developed by impactstory with grants from the National Science Foundation and the Alfred P. Sloan Foundation. As the trend toward Open Access continues, more resources are being uploaded into repositories by authors themselves. Unpaywall does not use “web scraping” but instead looks for these legal copies. This browser extension uses Google Chrome.
