

15:58:30 From Anne Marshall to Everyone:

Although the sketches shown by Kelly are not annotated measured drawings such as HABs, might they be of value in arguing for the continued relevance of historic architecture within contemporary city life and in this way perhaps have an impact on potential preservation?

16:10:29 From Dennis Doordan to Everyone:

Preservation has both a policy dimension and a technical dimension. AM's comment points to the potential of social media to influence the policy sphere of preservation by creating a constituency for preservation.

16:13:25 From Elizabeth Hughes to Everyone:

In China, how do you approach places where there are very few physical artifacts of the past - the community is dominated by new construction - but the community fiercely values the place for its historic associations? Are there examples of this?

16:34:17 From Anne Marshall to Everyone:

Thank you so much for a fascinating session.

16:34:21 From Elizabeth Hughes to Everyone:

Thank you!

16:34:23 From Taro Cai to Everyone:

Thank you!

16:34:32 From Elizabeth Mitchell to Everyone:

Thank you all!

16:34:41 From Katya Knyazeva to Everyone:

Thank you!

16:34:42 From Zhe Dong to Everyone:

Thank you all!