WELCOME from the Conference Chairs

In keeping with its mission to facilitate the study, understanding and conservation of architecture, landscapes and urbanism on a global scale, the Society of Architectural Historians has been expanding its affiliations with a network of international organizations pursuing similar objectives and has increasingly been attracting a more international membership. The SAH Annual International Conference has become in turn a hub for teachers and scholars, planners and architects, preservationists and policy specialists from all corners of the Earth. As a consequence, hundreds of SAH members will arrive in Glasgow, Scotland, in 2017 to hear new ideas about the distant past and, in many cases, learn from that past in order to affect the future. We welcome you as part of that worldwide contingent.

In Glasgow members will find a city that in its own history and current affairs aligns closely with the values of SAH. Scotland's largest city, Glasgow has a storied past as an intellectual center during the Scottish Enlightenment, a commercial powerhouse in the Industrial Age and, now, as a city that is consciously and convincingly reinventing itself for the global 21st century. It enjoys a splendid urban fabric rich in Victorian-era architecture, graced with the work of Alexander 'Greek' Thomson and Charles Rennie Mackintosh and increasingly studded with more recent projects by architects such as Norman Foster and Zaha Hadid. From its gridded streets rise historic buildings made of local sandstone and created by the wealth generated from shipping and other heavy industries that have long since mostly vanished. The city's built heritage has in turn become the foundation for new amenities and new institutions helping to guide it forward. Between sessions and after hours during the Conference, as well as in the days before and after, SAH members will have ample time to wend Glasgow's streets and take in the breadth of its history as well as the scope of its aspirations.

In many ways, the 2017 SAH annual conference is not just in Glasgow; it is about Glasgow. Attendees will gather at a number of unique Glaswegian venues while tours of smaller groups will fan out to notable sites nearby and throughout the region. Likewise, several session chairs and speakers are based in Glasgow and a number of papers will focus on the city and the architectural heritage of Scotland more generally. One of the conference roundtable sessions will be devoted entirely to Mackintosh, in particular his Glasgow School of Art, which was heavily damaged by fire in May, 2014, with the library, perhaps the building's finest room, completely destroyed. The roundtable will focus on the painstaking efforts being made to restore the building. The SAH Closing Night Event will celebrate the important architectural anniversaries of 2017, including Mackintosh's 149th birthday (June 7), the 200th birthday (April 9) of Glasgow's other architectural giant, Alexander 'Greek' Thomson, and Frank Lloyd Wright's 150th birthday (June 8).

In addition, the city will be the centerpiece of the SAH Glasgow Seminar, a format that began in 2013 in Buffalo to celebrate and study the annual conference host cities. The Glasgow Seminar highlights current issues and features local speakers in an effort to draw in the public at large and to promote a dialogue between conference attendees and the local community. The primary theme of the Glasgow Seminar is the challenge of balancing the city's built heritage with matters of sustainability and environmental stewardship. Speakers and audience members will be asked to consider the ways in which these concerns can reinforce, rather than undercut one another. Three defined issues will be featured: local housing, the use of open space, and development of the River Clyde. In each instance, historical contexts, current policies and anticipated needs will provide crucial contexts. While centered on contemporary Glasgow, these discussions are relevant to other post-industrial cities throughout the world, as numerous municipalities try to align preservation interests with development pressures and attempt to answer the question: How and at what cost can local identity, so often embodied in a city's architecture, become an integral part of sustainable growth?

In keeping with the SAH Strategic Plan to offer a platform for the broadest range of interests, the SAH Annual International Conference itself will be global in scope. Sessions address a wide range of themes, geographic locations and periods of time, revealing the numerous constituencies that will come together in Glasgow. Some speakers will help to refine or revisit enduring questions relevant to a limited number of specialists in the architecture of a specific historical period or region, but will do so in a global context. A sharp focus on micro-architecture, to take only one example, is shared by scholars working on medieval Europe, Japan, China, South Asia and the Mamluk Sultanate in Cairo. Other speakers will address matters of pressing urgency to entire populations. The conference program affords a cross-section through the discipline, comprised as it is of distinct fields whose interests intersect in the built environment. As several sessions attest, that environment is now succumbing to increasing pressure of inadvertent and, sometimes, intentional degradation. As a result, the schedule of sessions also reflects the changing nature of societies around the world, as well as the changing nature and focus of research into architecture and urban form. With the 2017 conference smashing SAH records in terms of the number of sessions proposed and the number of paper abstracts received, the Society is fast becoming a significant forum for the study and debate of such changes.

The importance of these matters, along with the international scope of the Glasgow Conference, has drawn the support of a wide array of individuals and institutions eager to assure that attendees get the most out of their time at the meeting and see the very best of Glasgow. We thank our friends in the United Kingdom and the United States for their generous support through funding and promotional partnerships. (Please see our sponsor and partner list on the following page.) We are, as ever, indebted to the tireless work behind the scenes of our Executive Director, Pauline Saliga, and the entire SAH staff, without whom there would be no annual conference and no great confluence of old friends and new colleagues in Glasgow.

The conference program book and mobile guide detail times, rooms, sessions, speakers, tours, venues and all the rest. If it seems like too much and you feel that there is not time enough to listen to papers, scan the books, talk with colleagues, visit the city and taste the local cuisine, then we have done our job well.

General Information

SAH membership and conference registration is required for access to all programs and events with the exception of the Mackintosh Symposium, SAH Glasgow Seminar, and tours, which are open to the public. Conference badges are required for admission to all conference activities.

Unless otherwise indicated, the conference will take place at the Technology & Innovation Centre (TIC) at the University of Strathclyde. All rooms are located in the TIC unless otherwise noted. Maps may be found on the conference mobile guide.

AIA CES Statement

The Society of Architectural Historians is an AIA CES Approved Provider. All events that qualify for AIA CES learning units (LU) are noted in the program. Each paper session (not individual papers) attended in its entirety qualifies for AIA CES 2.25 LU. SAH will report your attendance and record your earned learning units. A form will be available at the Conference Check-In/Information Desk that lists the sessions and other programs noting your participation. HSW is not approved for this conference.

Today is Charles Rennie Mackintosh's 149th birthday!

PRE-CONFERENCE Symposium

Mackintosh Symposium

"Mackintosh: Materials & Materiality"

9:00 a.m.–3:00 p.m.

Glasgow School of Art, Reid Building (167 Renfrew St)

Cost: $40

This is a pre-conference program presented by the Glasgow School of Art. Registration limited to 100. Tickets held at door. Visit gsamackintoshresearch.wordpress.com/mackintosh-symposium for more information.

Keynote Speaker: Pamela Robertson, Professor Emerita and Honorary Professorial Research Fellow, University of Glasgow

Chair: Robyne Calvert, Mackintosh Research Fellow, Glasgow School of Art

On June 7, the 149th birthday of Scotland's renowned architect Charles Rennie Mackintosh (1866–1928), SAH will present the Mackintosh Symposium, "Mackintosh: Materials and Materiality," with the Glasgow School of Art. Currently there are several major projects underway to restore and/or reconstruct Mackintosh's architectural and design work, and the Charles Rennie Mackintosh Society has recently completed a condition survey of all extant Mackintosh sites. These projects have provided new opportunities to closely examine the material aspects of Mackintosh's work, and new discoveries have already come to light. This symposium will offer a forum for knowledge exchange between these projects, with particular emphasis on tangible material research and the more intangible ideas of materiality that can complicate conservation approaches. Speakers will represent four major Mackintosh projects: Glasgow School of Art, The Willow Tea Rooms, the interiors from the Ingram Street Tea Rooms in the collection of Glasgow Museums, and the National Trust for Scotland – The Hill House. The closing will include an open discussion to offer an opportunity to explore this research with the wider architectural community.

Speakers:

- Alison Brown, Curator of European Decorative Art, Glasgow Museums
- Elizabeth Davidson, Senior Project Manager, Glasgow School of Art
- John Sanders, Willow Tea Rooms Project, Simpson & Brown Architects
- TBA, The National Trust for Scotland – The Hill House

This is a ticketed event. RSVP required upon registration for the conference. Space has been limited by the Glasgow City Council.

The SAH 70th Annual International Conference will officially begin with a civic reception hosted by The Rt Hon Sadie Docherty The Lord Provost of Glasgow. This will be the first opportunity to catch up with old friends and meet new SAH members and conference exhibitors. Enjoy a light reception with hors d'oeuvres and a celebratory toast as we celebrate the opening of the conference and the 149th birthday of Charles Rennie Mackintosh.

The SAH Annual Business Meeting and Introductory Address will take place at the Technology & Innovation Centre at University of Strathclyde.

SAH Annual Business Meeting

7:30–8:00 p.m.

Room: Auditorium A–C, Level 2 (at TIC)

The annual SAH Business Meeting will include the President's Address, election of SAH officers and Board of Directors, financial overview of SAH, and acknowledgement of fellowship and grant recipients and membership milestones.

Introductory Address: "The Architects Who Made Glasgow"

Brian Park, Founding Director of Page\Park Architects, UK

8:10–8:30 p.m.

Room: Auditorium A–C, Level 2 (at TIC)

Brian Park is one of two founders and the previous director of Page\Park Architects, an award-winning Glasgow firm that over its 35-year practice has bridged innovative contemporary design and rigorous architectural conservation. Park has focused on the conservation of historic buildings and has been responsible for work at The Scottish National Portrait Gallery, Rosslyn Chapel, McManus Galleries Dundee, and Bute Mausoleum. For over 20 years, Park has been involved as a conservation architect for the Glasgow School of Art's Mackintosh Building, including planning the reconstruction following the 2014 fire. Park will draw on his intimate knowledge of many of Glasgow's most important buildings to present a whistle-stop tour of Glasgow's origins and architectural history, setting the context for the work of Glasgow's great architects of the past who contributed to the urban environment and vibrant life of the city.

SAHGB Roundtable

The Audience for Architectural History in the 21st Century

Danielle S. Willkens, Auburn University, 2015 H. Allen Brooks Travelling Fellow, and Alistair Fair, University of Edinburgh, UK, Moderators

11:00 a.m.–12:30 p.m.

Room

Conference 3, Level 3

This roundtable is organized by the Society of Architectural Historians Great Britain (SAHGB).

This roundtable foreshadows what the SAHGB hopes will be its session at the SAH 2018 St. Paul conference, on the audience for architectural history in the 21st century. What are our methodologies? What do we teach, and why? Who are we teaching—postgraduate students of course, but also undergraduates? What are students' backgrounds—how relevant is western European architectural history to students from the Far East? What departments are we in—our own of architectural history, or in departments of architecture, history of art, or history? What subjects are our students primarily studying? Why do many schools of architecture teach little architectural history? Does computer-generated architectural form make historical precedent redundant? What of students' experiences of being taught? Is our teaching purely for the academy, or does what we teach architects have wider practical—and visual—implications? What if the audience is a town-planning authority and the question is whether to permit demolition or to list/put on the National Register? What about the wider public audience through museums, national parks, and preserved historic buildings?

Confirmed Panelists:

- Neil Jackson, RIBA, FSA, University of Liverpool in London, and SAHGB Annual Lecturer 2017

SAH Roundtable: 'State of the Mack'

The Restoration and Reconstruction of the Mackintosh Building at the Glasgow School of Art

Robyne Calvert, Glasgow School of Art, Moderator

1:15–2:45 p.m.

Room

Conference 4&5, Level 3

This roundtable is sponsored by Historic Environment Scotland.

The Mackintosh Building (or 'the Mack' as it is affectionately called) at the Glasgow School of Art (GSA) suffered a major fire on the May 23, 2014. Although the majority of the building and collections were saved, some of the most culturally significant portions of the building were lost, notably the beloved library. Almost immediately, the GSA community (including partners such as Historic Environment Scotland and the University of Glasgow) took steps to begin the process of safeguarding the building, restoring collections, and assessing what would be needed to reconstruct 'Mackintosh's masterwork.'

With restoration underway, this roundtable will offer insights on the latest developments in the reconstruction of the Mackintosh building at The Glasgow School of Art, including highlights from related research and conservation projects such as the restoration of the library lights and plaster casts, the recovery of the library collection, and the 3D laser scanning of the building. Panelists will include experts working across the project from the GSA, Park Architects, and Historic Environment Scotland.

EAHN Roundtable

Architectural History and Open Access in Europe

Maarten Delbeke, ETH Zürich, and Editor-in-Chief, Architectural Histories, Moderator

1:15–2:45 p.m.

Room Conference 8, Level 3

This roundtable is organized by the European Architectural History Network (EAHN).

After the successful roundtable on Architectural History Online at the SAH 2016 annual conference, the EAHN plans to discuss the possibilities and challenges of digital publishing and open access policies in the European context. The requirements of national funding agencies, as well as the financial support they offer, play a different role than in the U.S. The panel, consisting of journal editors and others active in the field, also will address questions of how journals deal with the proliferation of online publications, how they negotiate between the academic world and architecture culture writ large, and how they deal with the handling and sustainability of digital data.

Panelists:

- Caroline Edwards, Open Library of Humanities
- Irina Davidovici, ETH Zürich, bauforschungonline
- Juliette Hueber, InVisu/National Center for Scientific Research France
- Françoise Gouzi, Université Toulouse
- Eduard Fuehr, Brandenburg Technical University at Cottbus

THURSDAY Afternoon Programs

RT05

Reassessing Fieldwork Methods in Architectural History

Arijit H. Sen, University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee, and Iain Anderson, Historic Environment Scotland, Moderators

3:30 p.m.–5:00 p.m.

Room Conference 2, Level 3

This roundtable is sponsored by Historic Environment Scotland.

Recent architectural histories have shown us that the built environment is a dynamic world of encounters between people, situations, sites, buildings, sensations, actions, emotions, and meanings. In order to understand this complex world as a combination of the material and the somatic, tangible and the intangible, enduring and the ephemeral, architectural historians have used innovative methods and frames of analysis. This roundtable proposes to engage scholars in a critical examination of a few such methods of recording and analyzing historic architecture. Our primary goal will be to reexamine the “field,” both as a disciplinary area of studies and as a site of data collection and recording. Topics may include community-engaged historiography via digital media, new strategies in archival research and new forms of archives, or interdisciplinary work in documenting architectural, environmental, and ethnographic histories. We encourage participants to compare how the field can be a fecund site for a making—not merely applying—of social theories and new categories of analysis by discussing examples and case studies of fieldwork methods, practices, and approaches towards data collection and analysis.

Panelists:

- Thomas J. Campanella, Cornell University
- Swati Chattopadhyay, University of California, Santa Barbara
- Jeffrey Klee, Colonial Williamsburg Foundation
- Chiara Ronchini, Historic Environment Scotland

THURSDAY Evening Events

SAH Awards Reception

6:00–7:00 p.m.

Barony Hall, University of Strathclyde (1 McLeod St)

Cost: $40 (includes hors d'oeuvres and one drink; cash bar)

Join us for a light reception and conversation in one of Strathclyde's finest buildings, the historic Barony Hall. This beautifully restored red sandstone building dates back to 1889 and is based on the Gerona Cathedral.

SAH Awards Ceremony & Plenary Talk

7:00–8:30 p.m.

Barony Hall, University of Strathclyde (1 McLeod St)

SAH will present the SAH Publication Awards and the SAH Award for Film and Video, induct the 2017 SAH Fellows, and honor the achievements of our members. Please join us in acknowledging those being honored this evening. The award ceremony will be followed by the plenary talk.

Plenary Talk: "Architecture, its Histories, and their Audiences"

Kathleen James-Chakraborty, University College Dublin

As scholars, we are increasingly being asked to measure the impact of our research. How might we consider that of the buildings that we study? The pages of The Glasgow Herald, which for many years was quartered in a building designed for it by Charles Rennie Mackintosh, are among the sources that speak to the ways in which Glasgow's built heritage has shaped daily experiences, contributed to the local economy, and inspired imaginations.

GAHTC Roundtable

GAHTC 2.0

Robert Cowherd, Wentworth Institute of Technology, Moderator

9:00–10:30 a.m.

Room

Conference 4&5, Level 3

This roundtable is organized by the Global Architectural History Teaching Collaborative (GAHTC).

In late 2016, the Global Architectural History Teaching Collaborative concluded its inaugural 2013–2016 Mellon Foundation Grant with the launching of a shared platform for teaching materials (gahtc.org) with dozens of teaching modules, hundreds of complete lectures, and thousands of slides. With a follow-up grant for 2017–2022, the Collaborative is targeting those parts of the world and time periods that remain underrepresented in our courses. This roundtable discussion will showcase features of our exchange platform and outline some of the new initiatives in the works and well underway for the next period of growth and outreach.

Paper Sessions

SAH paper sessions are identified with session numbers. Each paper session is eligible for AIA CES 2.25 LU. Refer to the AIA CES statement on page 4 for more information.

RT07Graduate Student Roundtable*Design Practice and Architectural History: Intersecting Traditions?

Jennifer Donnelly, University of Pittsburgh, Moderator

1:15–2:45 p.m.

Room

Conference 4&5, Level 3

Is there room for architectural history in design and professional practice? Can design knowledge shape the direction of research and teaching methodologies for architectural historians? In the current academic climate, graduate students are encouraged to become increasingly diversified. Experiences in design and professional practice are compelling, but how do these fields intersect? Much of the debate surrounding design practices and academic architectural history remains siloed into two distinct disciplines. As architectural historians, how can we encourage dialogue, collaboration, and integration between academia and design professions?

This Graduate Student Roundtable seeks to conceptualize and highlight the intersections of these two methods of creative thought. How might the theoretical methodologies gained from an understanding of history, historical processes, and research problem solving serve architectural design and practice? How can practical knowledge and experience in design shape the way we organize, interpret, and write history? Most importantly, how might teaching history as design and design as history challenge established academic culture as well as invigorate new practical applications? This discussion reframes the disciplinary boundaries between design and historical practice, offering graduate students new conceptual avenues within which they can begin to frame their research and professional development.

Studying Victorian Architecture: Where Next?

Alex Bremner, University of Edinburgh, Moderator

1:15–2:45 p.m.

Room

Conference 6&7, Level 3

This roundtable will engage discussion on questions concerning the subject of Victorian architecture: its definition, its current state as a field of scholarly inquiry, and its novel development into the 21st century. As SAH ventures to the great Victorian city of Glasgow, with its wondrous array of late 19th-century buildings and industrial landscapes, there is perhaps no better moment (or setting) to reflect upon these questions.

Involving the participation of several leading experts in the field of 19th-century architectural history, this roundtable will consider how contemporary concerns in architectural scholarship can help reshape our understanding of Victorian architecture in newly insightful ways, revealing hitherto undeveloped lines of inquiry. It will address directly the current historiographic constitution of the field and its potential methodological transformation. Can questions and frames of reference from other fields of inquiry help give the study of Victorian architecture renewed interest and impetus, such as ideas concerning networks and flows of information and agency; migration and globalization, including regional and world historiographies; the history of science and its applications to architecture, including materials, industry, and logistics; or environmentalism and concepts of the Anthropocene?

Panelists:

- Mark Crinson, Birkbeck, University of London, UK
- Paul Dobraszczyk, University College London, UK
- Chris Miele, Montague Evans, UK
- Marrikka Trotter, Harvard University
- William Whyte, University of Oxford, UK

Confronting Challenges in the New Political Landscape

Dianne Harris, University of Utah, Moderator

1:30–2:30 p.m.

Room Executive A&B, Level 9

Academic and cultural communities currently are facing unprecedented challenges on an international scale. Funding cuts, affronts to academic freedom, and loss of major monuments due to war, neglect and climate change are but a few of the factors that are threatening the built environment and challenging the study of it. Join Dianne Harris, Dean, College of Humanities, University of Utah, in conversation with architectural historians who will discuss these and other issues confronting our profession. Panelists will make five-minute presentations, followed by a moderated discussion and audience questions.

Panelists:

- Maristella Casciato, Getty Research Institute
- Jeffrey Cody, Getty Conservation Institute
- Abby Van Slyck, Connecticut College
- Deyemi Akande, University of Lagos
- Zeynep Kezer, Newcastle University

SAH Glasgow Seminar

"Making and Re-Making Glasgow: Heritage and Sustainability"

8:30 a.m.–12:30 p.m.

Mackintosh Queen's Cross Church (870 Garscube Rd, Glasgow)

Cost: $10 conference registrants; $20 general public

The SAH Glasgow Seminar is generously sponsored by the Graham Foundation for Advanced Studies in the Fine Arts and Historic Environment Scotland.

The Seminar will bring together speakers, conference delegates, and local residents in conversation about the ways in which advocacy for heritage and sustainability can work in concert with one another. The Seminar will reflect on these terms broadly, exploring heritage as a public engagement with architectural, cultural, and civic history, and considering sustainability in its economic, community, and environmental perspectives. Speakers will discuss: How best can Glasgow (and by extension other post-industrial cities) balance heritage and sustainability for the future? How might these two drivers of the urban form—rather than being perceived as opposing forces—interrelate in support of the community, the environment, and good design?

Pairs of speakers will give brief talks focusing on three case studies in Glasgow, each having a rich local history as well as being at the heart of discussions about the city's future: 1) Glasgow as a city of innovative housing; 2) a city of parks, gardens, and other open spaces; and 3) a riverside city, taking its livelihood and identity from its use and imagining of the River Clyde. The Seminar will present a screening of the short film (Re)Imagining Glasgow, by local artist Chris Leslie. The Seminar will conclude with a panel discussion building on the case studies to address the broad themes through such questions as how preservation and conservation interests can be aligned with development pressures; how local identity can be cultivated around the city's built heritage and how this might enhance future civic planning; and how Glasgow might benefit from a culture economy that looks to both the past and the future for inspiration.

Glasgow residents are invited to help shape the seminar agenda through a crowdsourced image bank; in the weeks and days leading up to the Seminar, both local residents and visiting delegates are invited to submit via social media photographs of the city that they feel capture the key themes of heritage, sustainability, or ideally the conjunction between these two. Please post photos on Instagram or Twitter with the hashtags #sah2017seminar and #heritagesustainability.

Panelists:

- Lynn Abrams, University of Glasgow
- Hannah Victoria Connelly, University of Glasgow

SATURDAY Evening Program

SAH Closing Night Event

The Architects' Birthday Party

6:30–8:30 p.m.

Kibble Palace, Glasgow Botanic Gardens (730 Great Western Rd)

Cost: $65 (reception with hors d'oeuvres and drink; cash bar)

It seems fitting for a conference that began on Charles Rennie Mackintosh's 149th birthday to close with a celebration of the important architectural anniversaries that we celebrate in 2017. This year marks the 200th anniversary of the birth of Glasgow's other architectural giant, Alexander 'Greek' Thomson; the 150th anniversary of Frank Lloyd Wright's birth; and is also the centenary year for I.M. Pei. Come join us for a birthday party in their honor—and by extension in the honor of other architects, engineers, builders, and patrons whose work is at the center of our study.

This year also marks the 200th anniversary of the establishment of the original Botanic Gardens at Sandyford by the Royal Botanical Institution of Glasgow, so the most fitting venue for our celebration is the current Glasgow Botanic Gardens, and its iconic Kibble Palace, built by architects John Boucher and James Cousland.

MELLON FOUNDATION

Announcing new grant opportunities in alliance with SAH.

The Global Architectural History Teaching Collaborative was formed to help teachers of architectural history meet the pressing realities of a global perspective. Teams of scholars have now constructed over 200 lectures that exist on a free, web-based, teacher-to-teacher platform. GAHTC will continue to expand its offerings in the next years with the aim to further enhance teaching capacity and collect innovative research.

Funded by The Andrew W. Mellon foundation, the GAHTC will further its mission by dedicating its recent award of a $2.5 million towards six new grant programs, to promote the development of survey course material in the history of architecture. Thus strengthening its position in humanities teaching, while also sponsoring teacher-to-teacher conversations to support pedagogy with a global perspective with a deep understanding of the importance of interdisciplinary exchanges with related disciplines.

The GAHTC, in connection with the Society of Architectural Historians and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, is pleased to introduce the following grant opportunities:

Research-to-Teaching Grants

The GAHTC has established a $30,000 research to teaching fund. In recognition of the high-level and innovative research presented by SAH members, the GAHTC has created an opportunity to fund presenters' adaptation of their SAH related research and knowledge into compelling lectures. This will help enrich the library and provide instructors with content that they find engaging, timely, and inspirational to teach.

Field Seminar Travel Grants

The GAHTC has established a $15,000 fund to ensure opportunity for its members to join the SAH field study program, helping them to expand their research, gain unprecedented access to sites usually inaccessible to the general public, and engage in an environment that fosters intellectual discussion and debate.

NEW FROM

A WORLD OF ART, RESEARCH, CONSERVATION, AND PHILANTHROPY

The Los Angeles Central Library
Building an Architectural Icon, 1872–1933

Kenneth A. Breisch

With a foreword by Kevin Starr

The iconic Central Library in downtown Los Angeles is a beloved landmark, with high open ceilings, gorgeous murals, and a striking façade. In this comprehensive investigation of its design and construction, Kenneth A. Breisch reveals the narrative approach to architecture that informed the library's unique structure and embodies its overarching theme: the light of learning.

NEW FROM PITTSBURGH

Rise of the Modern Hospital

An Architectural History of Health and Healing,
1870–1940

JEANNE KISACKY

9780822944614 • 456 pp. • Cloth • $US 65.00

Jeanne Kisascky examines hospital design in the U.S. from the 1870s through the 1940s, a period that witnessed profound changes as hospitals shifted from last charitable resorts to premier locations of cutting-edge medical treatment. Heavily illustrated with floor plans, drawings, and photographs, it considers the hospital building as both a cultural artifact, revelatory of external medical and social change, and a cultural determinant, actively shaping what could and did take place within hospitals.

Modern Architecture in Mexico City

History, Representation, and the Shaping of a Capital

KATHRYN E. O'ROURKE

9780822944621 • 432 pp. • Cloth • $US 49.95

In the 1920s a new generation of architects created profoundly visual modern buildings intended to convey Mexico's unique cultural character. By midcentury these architects and their students had rewritten the country's architectural history and transformed the capital into a metropolis where new buildings that evoked preconquest, colonial, and International Style architecture coexisted. O'Rourke offers a new interpretation of modern architecture in the Mexican capital, showing close links between design, evolving understandings of national architectural history, folk art, and social reform.

Conference Tours

Tour Information

All conference tours will depart from the Technology & Innovation Centre (TIC) on the University of Strathclyde campus. Look for the "Tours Meet Here" signage located in the Level 2 Foyer (where the check-in desk is located). Volunteers will check you in and collect tickets before turning you over to the tour leader(s). Times noted for each tour indicate the time the tour will depart from the TIC and the time the tour will return to the TIC. You must present a ticket for each tour you plan to attend.

Tour capacity is not determined by the number of seats on the motor coach, but rather by the maximum number of visitors the sites will accommodate. SAH limits the number of participants when necessary in order to ensure a high-quality tour experience for our members.

 If public transportation is involved, be sure you have purchased your transportation tickets before the day of the tour to avoid delays and remain on schedule.

Please read the tour descriptions carefully, noting the mobility level (see key below). If lunch is not included, please plan your lunch accordingly. As part of SAH's green initiative, and to lighten the conference's eco-footprint, bottled water will not be available. Please bring your own bottle and fill it prior to the start of your tour.

Mobility Levels Key

ML1: Walk a few blocks, climb stairs, get on and off a motor coach easily, stand for short periods of time

ML2: In addition to level 1, climb a few flights of stairs, walk on uneven surfaces, maintain a walking speed with the majority of the participants, and stand for approximately 10–15 minutes

ML3: In addition to level 2, able to participate with longer standing and walking periods, various terrains, long driveways, steep driveways, several flights of stairs, unpaved areas, and stand for approximately 30 minutes

ML4: In addition to all mobility levels, this tour is not wheelchair accessible.

Edinburgh Tours

Edinburgh tour participants will take the train from Glasgow to Edinburgh on their own. (Participants will need to pre-purchase their roundtrip train ticket from Glasgow to Edinburgh; the ticket cost is not included in the price of the tour. Travel details will be emailed prior to the conference to help tour participants plan their trip – the journey is straightforward.) All will assemble at 11.00 a.m. at the University of Edinburgh School of Architecture for a brief welcome before separating into respective tours for the rest of the day. Participants will reassemble at the conclusion of the tours for a late afternoon reception. You may take the train back to Glasgow after the reception or stay longer in Edinburgh for dinner on your own.

Nominating Committee

Keith N. Morgan, Chair
Belmont Freeman, FAIA
Sandy Isenstadt
Katherine Solomonson
Sandra L. Tatman

Support for SAH Annual Conference Fellowships/Travel Awards

For graduate students, international speakers, and independent scholars presenting at the SAH Annual International Conference, the availability of travel awards helps to ensure participation in the conference. Each year, SAH awards approximately $25,000 in Annual Conference Fellowships. Each award is up to $1,000 and is a reimbursable stipend to be used to offset costs of conference registration and travel, lodging, and meals directly related to the conference. More information on Annual Conference Fellowships may be found at sah.org/acfellowships. Much-needed contributions to the funds listed below may be made at sah.org/donate.

The SAH 2017 Glasgow Conference is mobile!

Get the app on your mobile device now, for free:
guidebook.com/g/sah2017

1. Visit the above URL on your device
2. Tap the "download" button to get the free Guidebook app
3. Open Guidebook and look for the guide: SAH 2017 Glasgow Conference

With the guide you can:

- Create a personal schedule and set alerts
- Read paper abstracts
- Connect with attendees before, during, and after the conference
- Interact with attendees during the conference
- Search the entire program with speed and ease
- Submit feedback in real time on paper sessions, tours, and events
- View maps and floor plans

(You can't do ANY of that with the print program!)
