

13:00:58 From Lisa Beyeler-Yvarra to Everyone:

[My internet is unstable, so I'm submitting my question via the chat function.] Thank you, Maura, for sharing your compelling work! I have a question that might connect to your closing thoughts on current campus protests: Do you see any contemporary resonances/manifestations of the "settler campus" today—where the creation of a trained labor force for American (or Global North) imperial industry is at the center? (Perhaps American university STEM programs as pipelines for weapons contractors?)

13:05:09 From Lisa Beyeler-Yvarra to Everyone:

Thank you—looking forward to reading your book in the future!

13:11:51 From Kurt Pelzer to Everyone:

Thank you Maura for discussing your work and thanks Sylvia for facilitating this conversation! Busy day here at UCLA with Chancellor Block testifying before congress, a new encampment this morning, la sheriff buses, and helicopters overhead—the longue duree of the settler, militarized campus.

13:13:26 From Lisa Beyeler-Yvarra to Everyone:

Reacted to "Thank you Maura for ..." with 🍷

13:13:28 From Lisa Beyeler-Yvarra to Everyone:

You mentioned missionaries as a part of this imperial tapestry—could you speak to the role of missions/religious philanthropy in campus building?

13:19:08 From Lisa Beyeler-Yvarra to Everyone:

Thank you!

13:29:12 From Lisa Beyeler-Yvarra to Everyone:

Congratulations, Maura! And thank you for your wonderful facilitation, Sylvia!