

SAH IDEAS Committee Values & Mission Statements

Vision Statement

The Society of Architectural Historians (SAH) has tasked the SAH IDEAS (Inclusion, Diversity, Equity, Accountability, Sustainability) Committee with envisioning structural change within the Society as it approaches its centenary. The vision of the SAH IDEAS Committee is to shape, support, and inform the Society's interrogation of structures of power and help the Society maintain a strong commitment to sociopolitical equity and environmental justice. The IDEAS Committee supports and advises SAH in repairing past harms and redressing foundational structural inequities in order to take into account past injustices, ensure future sustainability, and care for the diverse community for which histories of architecture hold meaning.

Mission Statement

The IDEAS Committee holds SAH accountable to this vision by advising the Board and Executive Committee in establishing standards and initiatives that assure the inclusion of wider understandings of architectural history and radically diversify the Society's membership and publics. In the first phase, the SAH IDEAS Committee's priorities include:

- 1. Promoting an understanding of architecture as a historical practice that intersects with power and society and envisioning architectural history in its most inclusive and intersectional sense, as a field producing narratives that interrogate structures of power.
- 2. Building a culture of horizontal collegiality and structures of mutual support in SAH.
- 3. Developing community expertise and mutual mentorship within and beyond SAH membership to nurture research that challenges existing paradigms.
- 4. Elevating scholars within SAH whose self-identification or work represents previously underrecognized and/or unsupported directions for architectural history as researched, thought, or applied.
- 5. Supporting scholarship and publications by women, particularly women of color, whose output has been most significantly affected by the pandemic.
- 6. Forming structures within the organization for broad support of scholars and scholarship outside of the United States.

The SAH IDEAS Committee will carry out this mission by pushing forward a series of achievable initiatives aiming for structural change in SAH rather than reform.
