Hi Everyone. We will start in a few moments. Thank You.

12:02:20 From Frederike Lausch to Everyone:

Welcome everyone!

12:41:28 From Kai Smith to Everyone:

Is there a link to the flow chart to follow along?

12:41:30 From Ginger Nolan to Everyone:

Sorry! here's a link to a pdf of images:

13:07:53 From Heleni Porfyriou to Everyone:

Thank you so much for organizing this very interesting seminar and many thanks to all the speakers for their fantastic presentations dealing with different media and touching on different issues. Unfortunately I have to leave.

13:08:21 From Olga Touloumi to Everyone:

Thank you Heleni for joining us!

13:27:30 From Nushelle de Silva to Everyone:

Elis/Ginger, small fun fact: there was a Cinva-Ram block-making exhibit at the Small Industries Exhibition - which makes me think a lot about the process of fossilizing of an imagined indigene through this network of media, and how much that sharpening image was peculiarly transnational. It also makes me wonder how much that image became an aggregate as a result of these developmental feedback loops.

13:28:09 From Ginger Nolan to Everyone:

That's super interesting, I want to follow up on that with you later...

13:28:22 From Elis Mendoza to Everyone:

Yes, me too

13:29:45 From Olga Touloumi to Everyone:

That's such a great point Nushelle!

13:31:30 From Nushelle de Silva to Everyone:

Also, Ateya, I'm also struck by your choice of Miro as a tool for representation — especially given the contexts in which I've seen it used for collaborative “design thinking” work a la the Stanford d.school

13:33:53 From Sabine von Fischer to Everyone:

Thank you everyone !!

13:33:59 From Elis Mendoza to Everyone:

Thanks you all!

13:34:17 From Irene Brisson to Everyone:

Thank you all! Great thoughts

13:34:22 From M Mallika to Everyone:

Thank you everyone! It was certainly very insightful! Hope to join other such webinars!

13:34:26 From Lisa Beisswanger to Everyone:

Thankyou!
